

TWS 21 African Literature: Islam and Immigration
Summer 2018
Session I

This course will survey texts and films from West and North Africa and Spain, with an emphasis on Islam and the practices of migration to Western Europe over the last fifty years. These are themes and activities that resonate with contemporary events both in Europe and in the United States. While many North and West Africans target France, as the French-speaking metropole, many have more recently migrated to Spain, through the Canary Islands, the straits off of Tangier, and the Spanish territories of Ceuta and Melilla on the Moroccan Mediterranean coast. We will read some well-known literary texts in English translation that highlight Muslim culture and the dangers and traumas of migration. Films will come from both African and Spanish directors, treating issues of immigration of the last decade.

We will have a local professor who will lecture on Spain and immigration and also meet with NGOs that are active in immigration issues.

We will visit various sites in the city of Granada where recent immigrants, mostly Senegalese, live and work, often as vendors in open plazas but increasingly in other higher-paying employment. Another outing will include the Sacromonte neighborhood, where historically Romas (“gypsies”), migrants arriving from Asia, Africa and Europe for centuries, resided in cave houses. We’ll explore the Albaicin, the former Arab quarter that retains the architecture and street layouts of the days when Moors ruled the city. The central attraction of the city is the famous Moorish fortress and palace, the Alhambra, and we will visit this wondrous site where Muslim and Christian Spain left their marks. We will attend a flamenco/Zambra performance that combines elements of European and African/Arab aesthetics in both the dance styles and singing/instrumental music.

Field trips will include a two-night visit to Morocco, to compare the contemporary Muslim culture and its ancient architecture with what we see in Granada. We will also visit with an NGO in Morocco that deals with African migrants and refugees waiting to enter Spain. At Ceuta we will see the border fence and fortifications meant to keep migrants from moving into the small municipality that is actually a part of Spain on the Moroccan mainland. Another field trip will entail two nights in Madrid where we will meet with groups that work on immigration issues as well as visit the culturally diverse neighborhood of Lavapies.

Instructor: Robert Cancel
Phone: (local cell)
Email: rcancel@ucsd.edu
Course ID: 951017

Site Classroom
Meetings: Unless otherwise noted,
TWTh 10AM – 12 noon
Office hours: TWTh 12 – 1 PM

Course Requirements:

ALL ASSIGNMENTS MUST BE COMPLETED IN ORDER TO PASS THE COURSE.

50% Class Participation: Though part of the course will comprise lectures on the material, a good deal depends on discussion of the films and texts. Attendance, obviously, is an important component of the class and missing more than one class session will result in a reduction of the grade for this requirement. Taking part in the various local and overnight field trips also count for the participation grade.

Writing Assignments: Because this is a small class, I will be available to help students with their writing in order to improve their research skills as well as the quality of their class essays.

40% Papers: Two papers, each three pages long, will be required. One must be on a text and the other on a film. Specifics on these assignments will be provided the first week of class. Due dates: 5th July and 18th July.

10% Final Exam: Given on the last day of class, Thursday 26th July, will be inclusive of the course material.

Class Etiquette

To belabor the obvious, arriving on time and leaving only when class is ended will be expected of each student. If someone has a valid reason for either arriving late, leaving early or missing a meeting, let me know in advance or, if necessary, after class. Attendance will be taken early in each class session, starting from the first meeting of the course.

While acknowledging the importance of electronic information flow, laptops are to be used during class time to take notes and, if necessary, look up information pertinent to lecture topics, if I ask you to. Multi-tasking is nice, but most studies suggest that focusing on one task at a time, in this case lecture, note taking and discussion (actually three tasks), is a more effective way to understand and remember information. Students who cannot abide by this rule will be asked to close their laptops. Cell phones are not to be consulted during class.

Literature and film constitutes the main data of this class. You maximize your understanding and appreciation of this material if you complete assignments before they are lectured on or discussed in class. If you do not do this, and then have a hard time trying to understand or write about the material, you might want to consider one of the sources of your problem (see first two sentences of this paragraph).

Finally, this is a literature and film course and writing is important. All UCSD students have signed a pledge of academic integrity. Any suspected cases of plagiarism will be submitted for formal investigation by the university. The whole idea of writing a paper is for students to express their own analytical findings, ideas and impressions; otherwise no real learning is taking place. If writing is a problem for you, please ask me, or someone, for help in a timely manner in order to maximize your chances for success.

Because we are a Global Seminar meeting in Granada, and it is important to abide by the pledge you signed before departure, egregious and obvious deviations from the UCSD Code of Conduct, Academic Integrity Rules, and otherwise dangerous or threatening behavior could result in dismissal from the Program. On the other hand, I and the local Program staff stand ready to assist you in any way if you experience any sort of personal problems.

Syllabus:

Tuesday 6/26; 10AM - noon: Introductory Remarks: Africa and its Representation in the West

READ: "How to Write About Africa," Binyavanga Wainaina, electronically shared file
SCREEN FILM: Borom Sarret, Ousmane Sembene

Wednesday 6/27; 10AM - noon: Islam and its Complex History and Variations

READ: Islam: A Brief History, Karen Armstrong, pp. 1 – 53

Friday 6/30: 9 – 10AM: Guest Lecture: "Immigration: Africa and Spain," Professor Jose María Pérez Fernandez (University of Granada)

10:15AM – 12:15PM: Cultures Clash and the Dream of Immigration

SCREEN FILM: La noire de..., Ousmane Sembene (1966)

---

Tuesday 7/3; 10:00AM – 1PM: Colonial Education and Images of Immigration

READ: Ambiguous Adventure, Cheikh Hamidou Kane; Islam: A Short History, Karen Armstrong, pp. 81 – 96

Wednesday 7/4; 10AM - noon: Granada and Senegal: Immigrant Streams

READ: Rebordering the Mediterranean: Boundaries and Citizenship in Southern Europe, Liliana Suárez-Navaz, pp. 162 – 220, shared electronic file

Thursday 7/5; 10AM – noon: Contemporary African literature in Spanish: Equatorial Guinea and Western Sahara

READ: "The Dream," Donato Ndongo-Biyogo, shared electronic file
FIRST PAPER DUE TODAY

---

Monday 7/9; 6 – 8PM: The "Journey to Spain"

SCREEN FILM: La pirogue, Moussa Touré (2012)

Thursday 7/12; 10AM - noon: Spanish "Othering" of African Immigrants

SCREEN FILM: Bwana, Imanol Uribe (1996)

---

Tuesday 7/17; 10AM - noon: Dreams of, and “Arrivals” in, Spain

READ: Hope and Other Dangerous Pursuits, Laila Lalami

SECOND PAPER DUE TODAY

---

Tuesday 7/24: 10:15AM – 12:15PM: Immigration Matters of Conscience

SCREEN FILM: Frente al mar (Poniente), by Chus Gutierrez (2002)

Wednesday 7/25; 10AM - noon: Concluding Remarks and Review

Thursday 7/26; 10AM - noon: FINAL EXAM